En Passant

A game of chess on the screen, and two musicians improvising around it. A live chess and avant-garde music duo.

En Passant, live

About

In chess, en passant is the one capture that happens on a square the piece never landed on: a move you only see if you are paying attention.

En Passant is a live chess and avant-garde music duo. A chess game plays out on a projected board above the stage while Baan G on electronics and Panamanian drummer Fidel Dely improvise around it. The music answers the game in real time, and competitive thinking becomes something an audience can hear.
